

PRIVACY POLICY

KEMBA PEORIA Credit Union is committed to protecting the personal financial information regarding our members, our members' accounts, and all member transactions confidential as required by federal and state laws.

INFORMATION WE COLLECT

We may collect nonpublic personal information about members from some or all of the following sources:

- Information we receive from members on applications or other forms, such as their name, address, social security number, assets, and income.
- Information about member transactions with us, our affiliates, or others, such as their account balance, payment history, parties to transactions, and credit card usage.
- Information we receive from a consumer reporting agency, such as member creditworthiness and credit history.

INFORMATION WE DISCLOSE

We do not disclose any nonpublic personal information about our members or former members to anyone except as required by law. However, we may disclose all of the information we collect, as described above to service providers and companies that perform marketing services on our behalf.

CONFIDENTIALITY AND SECURITY

The credit union restricts access to nonpublic personal information about members to those employees or officers who need to know that information to provide products or services to members. The credit maintains physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards that comply with federal standards to protect our members' nonpublic personal information.
